Introduction

International Women's Day (IWD) is celebrated on March 8 every year. It is a major event for women's rights.

IWD today ranges from being a public holiday in some countries to being largely ignored in other countries. In some places, it is a day of protest — in others, it is a day that celebrates womanhood.

Each year, IWD focuses on different important subjects related to women's rights. In 2020, IWD will focus on empowering women through education and skills.

The main corporate colour for IWD is purple and they would like to retain their identity by having this colour as the dominant one. Additional colours may be used, but they should be warm and harmonious with the purple.

International Women's Day is powered by the collective efforts of all
Collective action and shared ownership for driving gender parity is what makes International Women's Day successful. So make International Women's Day your day and do what you can to truly make a positive difference for women.
A balanced world is a better world.
Celebrate women's achievement.

Page 3

When young women are empowered to create opportunities for ourselves, we can design the future world we want to live in. That's what I believe in, that's the reason I am part of this movement.
Jacqueline Tanzer
