CLEAR SPACE & MINIMUM SPACE

CLEAR SPACE

Clear space or can be called the rule of limiting the distance between the logo and re-application so that there is an empty space to see it more focused and intact and the physical logo does not change. The size of the clear space depends on the size of the logo, if you have determined the size of the logo, use the flask element in the logo to determine the clear space.

MINIMUM SIZE

20 mm 55 px

This minimum size is set based on the size of the letters on the scale, which is still possible to be seen or read clearly. However, for some special reproduction conditions such as newspaper printing, hot print or screen printing, always use a size larger than the minimum size, whenever possible.

IMPROPER USAGE

Change logo color

Rotate logo

Distort logo

Add outline

Change configuration

Add effect

Correct application and reproduction of logos is very important for the image we want to convey. Not allowed to change or change the position of any element of the logo, and always use the color or configuration as stated in this manual. The examples above do not represent all possible errors, but illustrate some of the common mistakes that need to be avoided in reproducing logos.

SUPERGRAPHIC

VERTICAL RIBBON

HORIZONTAL RIBBON

CURVE RIBBON

Supergraphics are accessories for brands to beautify the application of the logo philosophy in various design media. Also as a connector of a design with other designs so as not to deviate from the meaning of the logo. There is 3 option for the usage of the supergraphic based on its implementation and layout.

The supergraphic can have a dynamic height in vertical version and a dynamic width on horizontal ribbon that can fulfill it usage on any dimension given.
